Neuwing Development and Renewable Power Partners Announce Merger Forms One of Largest Utility-Scale Solar Pipelines in Mid-Atlantic

WILMINGTON, DE –July 13, 2010. Neuwing Development, LLC, an affiliate of Neuwing Energy Ventures, LLC, and Renewable Power Partners, LLC (RPP) today announced that they have completed a definitive merger agreement as of June 30, 2010. The companies have combined to create Neuwing Renewable Energy, LLC (NRE), a renewable energy development company focused on utility-scale solar projects ranging in size from 1 to 20 megawatts throughout the Mid-Atlantic region.

"This merger creates one of the East Coast's largest solar development companies, based on project pipeline and megawatts currently under development," said Robert Rabe, RPP's Founder and President. "We all benefit from the increased scope, scale and critical mass afforded by this merger, which substantially increases our financial capability, adds value to existing projects and creates new opportunities for growth. We are stronger and more diverse as a combined entity."

The combined company integrates RPP's pipeline and assets with Neuwing's current energy consulting and solar development businesses. NRE's pipeline consists of approximately 300 megawatts of primarily utility-scale solar farms currently in various stages of development, as well as an additional 800 megawatts of project pipeline in negotiation with landowners and regional utilities.

"This merger has created an exceptional platform for operational execution and future growth," said Chad Gottesman, CEO of the newly combined entity. "Each company is contributing strategic assets, experienced personnel, and operational capabilities. More importantly, we have created a management team with deep expertise in renewable energy project development, as well as extensive experience in commercial land development, finance, and real estate law. By consolidating the broad experience of our operations and executive personnel and taking advantage of an infusion of equity, new strategic opportunities have already started to emerge."

The new company will be headquartered in Wilmington, Delaware. Press inquiries should be directed to info@neuwingrenewable.com.
